FIFTY-SECOND YEAR No. 38.

CEDARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY, AUGUST 30, 1929

PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR

NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

COLUMBUS, O.—The state fair is now on in full blast with thousands of visitors in attendance daily. "The best state fair Ohio ever had," is the unanimous opinion of all. The state departments are well represented in various exhibition halls. State Librarian George Elliott McCormick has established a miniature library with complete service with books, magazines and various periodicals giving daily service to all who desire it. The Highway Division has an exhibition of various materials used in road construction, while the Bureau of Motor Vehicles has an attractive display of license plates of all states and many foreign countries, as well as plates used since the establishment of the division and also samples of the plates to be used next year. The Agricultural department is well represented with exhibits of its several divisions and the State Department of Health in addition to its exhibit, is rendering first aid to all who may need it during fair week.

Warden Preston E. Thomas of the Ohio Penitentiary always has plenty to do with his multiplied duties but at this season of the year is one of the busiest officials of the state. Supervising the many building projects at the big institution he finds time to look after the welfare of his nearly 4,500 enforced visitors and also to prepare for their wants during the approaching winter. Right now he is having thousands of fruit cans manufactured and is canning enough fruit and vegetables to fill a half dozen elevators. It is all brought in from the two prison farms and the men inside the walls do all the work. The inmates are not allowed to receive visitors during state fair week.

Chief Clerk H. W. Ellis in the department of Auditor of State Joseph T. Tracy, reports that on one day recently 3,472 warrants were issued and which aggregated $1,414,124.79. That is the largest day's business in the history of the office. Mr. Ellis also states that during the eight and a half years of Auditor Tracy's incumbency of the office the work of the department had more than doubled, with only the same number of employees as obtained eight years ago.

Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown is back on the job with renewed vim and vigor after undergoing treatment for two weeks at Mt. Carmel Hospital. He has moved to the Capital City from Blanchester and is occupying a home in Franklin Avenue. He has permission of his physician to be at the office daily and has taken advantage of it by rigid and thorough inspection and direction of the various divisions of his office.

Director Charles A. Neal of the State Department of Health has issued a warning against the deadly effects of carbon-monoxide gas which in a period from July 1, 1928 to July 1, 1929, caused 168 cases of gas poisoning resulting in 38 deaths. Director Neal warns drivers never to warm up the motor of an auto in a closed garage and to maintain some ventilation while on the road; no fire of any type should be allowed to burn in the bedroom during sleep and water heaters should not be installed in the bathroom or kitchen, and where ever installed they should be adequately flued to the exterior. Take no risks.

SMALLER TOWNS AT THE FRONT

Chicago—The industrial leadership of the big city in America is already challenged by Main Street, and the small town is now well on the road to economic leadership of the nation, according to a study of the latest American business methods and policies issued today by the United West Utilities Company.

The drift of people to the big cities continues, but this no longer concentrates wealth as formerly and the productive capacity of city populations is not increasing in equal measure with that of the inhabitants of smaller towns, it is declared.

The study is published under the title "America's New Frontier," the small towns and countryside being hailed as the scene of the next stage of industrial progress.

Small Towns Gaining
The decentralization of wealth and industry revealed in the book is evidenced in the 4,000 small communities served with electric power by the corporation. In addition to its own experience the corporation presents a study of government figures and the economic conclusions of leading social scientists.

The report on recent economic changes by the committee which was headed by President Hoover is cited to show that the only present gain in number of industrial wage earners is taking place in towns of less than 10,000 population.

The historic concentration of industry in the large cities grew out of the character of power supply throughout the greater part of American industrial development together with the inflexible nature of transportation facilities, the study points out. The past decade, however, has witnessed the rapid growth of distributable electric power which has been made available in ample quantities at virtually every point on the map, and has also seen the tremendous increase in the use of the automobile and the introduction of more flexible freight railway service.

The book issued asserts that simultaneously with these technical improvements which have made it possible to decentralize the factory system, there has appeared in the economic life of the great cities a law of diminishing returns.

The increasing difficulties and cost of metropolitan life have reacted upon industry, the book states, so that industrial leaders have been aroused to the advantages of diffusion. Charles Kettering, of General Motors Research Corporation, Carl Alsborg, bakery expert, E. J. Kulas, steel manufacturer, and other key men of American industry are quoted in the book as advocating decentralization and greater simplicity of industrial plant.

It is declared in the study that city growth after a certain point of saturation creates more handicaps than facilities for productive industries. Per capita tax rates are shown to increase more rapidly as the cities gain greater size.

In the larger cities labor and electric power are both diverted in increasing measure from productive and socially profitable uses to mere efforts to overcome the handicaps of congestion—such as costly rapid transit, the erection of buildings of great height, and the immense outlays required for the maintenance and operation of such structures. The problem of urban water supply is briefly discussed in the book, with the observation that water resources determine the ultimate limit of city growth. The contention of the book is that the present layout of cities is not abreast of the achievements of science and engineering.

Measurement Called Obsolete
The study rules out population as a measurement of communities either from the standpoint of productive capacity, purchasing power or living standards. The population measurement was rendered obsolete with the substitution of mechanical power for man power, it is declared.

The smallest community now has access to as great a supply of power as the large community and since it requires relatively little for uses devoted to "keeping people out of each other's way," its productive capacity per unit of power is vastly greater than that of the large city. With the motor truck and highway furnishing equal access to markets industry's interest in the small town is increasing.

In a historical summary of the growth of American business, the book shows how the population and industries which followed the first frontier westward tended to cluster in growing cities. "This," it declares, "left between the cities great gaps of scantily developed country dotted by thousands of small communities. These towns were supported by trade rather than industry, because the nature of the power supply and transportation tended to confine factories to the more congested cities. A wider distribution of power over the countryside and the more flexible transportation offered by the motor truck and highway have released industry from confinement and equipped the small town to accommodate the industries which seek release from high costs of city life.

FARMER INVITED TO GO TO COURT

The effort being made to make the farmers like the present trucking law whereby one farmer cannot lend his truck or give aid without running counter with the law, is not meeting with the success some might suppose.

C. A. Dyer, lobbyist for the Grange and Farm Bureau, in a speech in Xenia several days ago boldly says the new law does not take any rights away from the farmer, but of course puts a veiled loophole in his statement to play safe in his promise. If one reads between the lines Mr. Dyer stands sponsor for the justness of the law that openly gives licensed truck owners greater privileges on the highways than farmers. He does go almost to the extreme in inviting farmers to proceed and then if arrested, call on his organization for legal aid but did not include a statement that his organizations would pay the fines if any farmer was found guilty.

The last legislature created a trust for licensed truck owners which of course means the farmer must be cautious about lending aid to his neighbor. He can step into the bootlegger class and defy the truck law as do rum runners and take chances of being arrested. The farmer can, and some do, have their neighbor haul hogs to market and have them weighed in the name of the truck owner, thus slyly deceive the state inspector that hangs around stock markets looking for farmers out to defeat the purpose of the law. Mr. Dyer's stand for the law is more in the interest of the licensed truck than the farmer.

IMPROVING THE STRAWBERRY

Years ago, men began to improve the "stray berry," now the strawberry of commerce. In the process countless thousands of seedlings have evolved one variety after another. Of large and luscious berries, each has brought early-bearing, late-bearing and "ever-bearing" plants so that the amateur of professional grower has his choice of hundreds of varieties when he wishes to set out a "bed."

The latest triumph in strawberry culture, announced by the bureau of plant industry of the U. S. department of agriculture, is the Blackmore berry. It is said to be better than any other variety as a market berry, being heavier, firmer and brighter in color. The berry is a cross between the Missionary and the Howard 17 or Premier berry. It is named for the first president of the national preservers association.

The announcement probably is of more interest to scientists and commercial preservers than to the individual who likes strawberries. Any variety of this berry is good by any test when it is picked at the right time and put to use immediately. The horticultural inventors have seen to that.

If they intend to continue the improvement work, and doubtless they do, the average man would like to see them work out a berry that would mature early in the spring and continue bearing until frost has killed all vegetation. The strawberry shortcake season is too short. If science can lengthen it man will be pleased more than he will be by larger and firmer berries.

With all due respects to the new Blackmore, the average consumer would like to have a berry with staying qualities. The improvements that have been made in the "ever-bearing" varieties give rise to the hope that this consummation of a greatly desired end will be eventually achieved. —Dayton Herald.

LENDING AID TO WESTERN GRAPE GROWERS

One of the acts of the Federal Farm Loan Board that cannot be understood at this time is the making of a huge loan to the California grape growers, meantime other farm crops are awaiting scientific investigation for relief.

If there is any product grown in this country that is meeting with a heavy demand it is grapes, not only in California but northern Ohio as well. Both of these sections previous to the introduction of the Volstead act turned a large percentage of their grapes over to manufacturers of wines. A great howl went up at that time that prohibition would ruin the industry. The reverse has been the case as grapes now are in greater demand and bring higher prices than before.

California grapes in particular are noted for value in the making of wine. Thousands of carloads are shipped to eastern states today where previously the wine was shipped. The answer to the situation is that wine is now a home-made product and city fruit dealers find a ready market for the California grapes.

Co-incidental with the above announcement of the farm loan is the statement in the press that Prohibition Commissioner Doran is going west to investigate the extent of wine manufacture from California grapes. Many firms are advertising grape juices that can be purchased by the keg or barrel and wine made from it for domestic use. No doubt there has always been considerable home-made wine from grapes but the enormous shipments of grapes east the past five years indicates an abnormal growth and a use of the fruit that may not meet the requirements of the prohibition law. We fail to see where grape growers are in need of financial relief unless it is to meet the increased demand for the California variety.

PICTORIAL GOLF INSTRUCTION

By H. B. Martin

Clubs Should Be Used for Short Distances at First

A PRACTICE chart such as shown here is for the one who wishes to learn the use of the clubs for short distances only. Get in the habit of practicing a follow through in this manner and it will stick with the player when he tries the longer swing. A good way to begin golf is to start with a putter learning how to hit the ball a short distance first. Gradually increase the distance as you become more proficient just as in piano practice. The dotted lines show the swing of the club. The ball is picked up about half way between the start and finish of the club.

Lining Up a Shot Gives Accuracy

Lining up a shot is valuable to every golfer who is seeking direction and accuracy. Most of the stars have a way of doing this without making any extra effort, or counter checking. The well grooved shot is always lined up. The club is never permitted to get out of line. Usually the club is extended in front of the body, almost pointing to the hole. The further it is extended the more one can be sure that there has been a very long follow through. It is only in the very long sweep with the iron that one cannot be sure of his direction. It may bring about a slice or a hook according to how the ball has been hit.

EIGHT YEARS OF NEURITIS ROUTED BY NEW KONJOLA

Many Treatments and Medicines Failed to Remedy Affliction; Entire Body was Affected; Ailment Now Banished

MR. JOSEPH BEDMARK

"I have been relieved of a very stubborn case of neuritis, and this new medicine, Konjola, gets all the credit," said Mr. Joseph Bedmark, O. S. S. Home, Sandusky. "For eight long years I suffered the ravages of this dread affliction. Only one who has, or had, it can imagine what I went through. At times I had to use crutches. I was discouraged and down hearted."

"In eight weeks Konjola made me feel like a different man. My whole system has been rejuvenated. Now I can climb four flights of stairs without the slightest pain. I threw the crutches away some time ago and have had no use for them since. I feel so much better it is hard for me to imagine what a poor condition I was in just a short time ago. I am willing to make an oath as to the truth of this statement, and I sincerely hope that others will profit by my happy experience."

Konjola is sold in Cedarville at Provant & Brown drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Miss Helen Hill, who has been spending several weeks in North Dakota, visiting Miss Florence Summers, has returned home.

Mr. A. G. Collins, who recently left the McClellan hospital and is now at his home, is greatly improved the past week.

Community Building

Grafting Growth of Zoning Activity Noted

During the last year, 87 municipalities passed zoning ordinances, while 101 either adopted more comprehensive zoning ordinances or amended existing regulations to make them more effective. An analysis of the 37 new zoning ordinances which were passed shows that 44 were comprehensive; that is, the use, height and area of buildings were regulated; 27 merely controlled the use of buildings; seven regulated the use and area of buildings; and two merely amended existing ordinances pending the preparation of a zoning ordinance to suit local requirements.

Zoning activity is evident in practically all states, the report shows. New York led in the number of municipalities zoning during 1920, with 25 cities, towns and villages. Ohio and Pennsylvania tied for second place with six each. Youngstown, Ohio; Waterbury, Conn., and Altoona, Pa., were three of the largest cities which adopted zoning legislation last year. South Dakota and Idaho were added to the states having zoning ordinances when four cities in the former and three in the latter adopted zoning ordinances during the year.

New York is the foremost state in the Union in the number of its municipalities having zoning ordinances in effect with a total of 131. New Jersey is second with 84; California, third with 72; Illinois, fourth with 71, and Massachusetts, fifth with 62. Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin and Kansas follow in the order named.

Little Difficulty in Remodeling Old Home

As the average family grows more prosperous, it begins to think in terms of greater home prestige and comfort. The subject of new furniture for the living room comes up, the thought of moving to other quarters is given consideration, and there is a general uneasy feeling that the family is not getting all out of its home life that it should.

Many families who own their own home would not hesitate for an instant to leave the neighborhood for more pretentious quarters were it not for the fact that old friends and acquaintances would be out of easy reach.

The desire for a bigger home and one with more modern improvements can be accomplished through modernizing. Exterior walls can either be overcoated with shingles or stucco. The interior may be lived and made pleasant through the use of paint and varnish, new trim, the installation of a second bath and replacement of the worn-out heating system with a colorful, jacketed and insulated boiler and decorative thin tube radiators.

Mr. Carl Kyle and daughter, Gwen-dolyn, of Springfield, spent the week-end with Mr. J. E. Kyle.

Mrs. J. E. Kyle returned home Tuesday evening after and extensive visit in Minnesota.

Mr. Robert Moorehead and family of Zanesville, spent the week-end as guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hastings. Mr. Moorehead is a brother of Mrs. Hastings.

Rev. Walter Morton and wife of Louisville, Ky., are guests of the latter's father, Mr. S. M. Murdock. Rev. and Mrs. Morton have been spending part of their vacation at Winona Lake, Ind. They will return home next week and will be accompanied by their son, Harold, who has been spending the summer with his grandfather.

Mrs. Milton Bratton spent Wednesday with her son, Frank, in Springfield, and on her return she found that her children, grandchildren and sister from Dayton, with her family, and a brother from North Hampton with his family, had gathered at her home to remind her of her fifty-fourth birthday. Ice cream, cake and lemonade were served during the evening.

The Misses Marguerite and Kathryn Oxley of New Lexington, Ohio, are spending a few days here with friends.

Lesson for September 1

THE RETURN OF THE SECOND GROUP OF EXILES TO JERUSALEM

GOLDEN TEXT—The hand of our God is upon all them for good that seek Him.
LESSON TEXT—Ezra 1:1-8:36.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Care on a Journey.
JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Care on a Journey.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Prayer Helps.
YOUNG PEOPLE'S AND ADULT TOPIC—Prayer and Providence.

1. The Leader—Ezra (7:1-10).
1. Who he was (vv. 1-3).
(1) A priest (vv. 1-3). He was from the line which was to stand between God and the people, a descendant of Serah, the chief priest who had a lineage back to Aaron. The leader of the first company was Zerubbabel, a sort of military governor. The great need now was for a religious leader, for the people had gone far from God.
(2) A ready scribe (v. 6).
He was a teacher of the law of God. A scribe's training began at thirteen years, but he did not enter upon his official duties till thirty years of age, giving him seventeen years of training.

2. His high ambition (vv. 7-10).
(1) He set his heart to seek the law of the Lord (v. 10). He definitely set out with the purpose to know God's word. No one who purposes in his heart to seek the law of the Lord can fail.
(2) He set his heart to obey the Lord (v. 10).
He was not only concerned with knowing God's word, but obeying it. God's word cannot be known in its fullness by the intellect; it must be experienced.

(3) He set his heart to teach in Israel God's statutes and judgments (v. 10). He not only had a love for God's word, but a desire to implant it in the hearts of others.

II. Ezra's Commission (7:11-20).
Artaxerxes, the king, gave him a copy of the decree, authorizing him to lead a company back to Jerusalem. This decree empowered him:

1. To collect funds (vv. 15, 16).
2. To levy tribute (vv. 21, 22).
3. To appoint magistrates and judges (v. 25).
4. To execute penalties (v. 26).
For this great favor Ezra lifted his heart to God in thanksgiving (vv. 27, 28).

III. The Company Which Returned (8:1-20).
The company was comparatively small—only seventeen hundred and fifty-four males, but including women, children and servants there were perhaps six or seven thousand people.

IV. Ezra's Prayer and Fasting (8:21-23).
The first thing that Ezra did was to seek God's guidance. All Christians, as well as leaders of the people, should seek divine guidance and help in every new undertaking. No success can be realized without His help and blessing. The reason Ezra sought the Lord's help was that as far as possible he desired his mission to be free from human dependence. He did not minimize the dangers attending his journey, but since he had assured the king that the hand of the Lord would be upon all for good who sought Him, he was now ashamed to ask the king for a military escort to protect them from the marauding Arabs. His desire was to prove to the king the reality of God's help, for God's honor among the heathen was at stake. This was a real test of faith, but God was faithful.

V. The Successful Journey (8:24-32).
God heard their prayer. The treasure entrusted to them was great. Perhaps the entire value of money and sacred utensils was about five million dollars. For a small caravan carrying such an amount of money to go through a country infested by robber bands was most perilous, but Ezra knew that God was able and would protect them. Observe:

1. Care and honesty (vv. 24-30).
The money was weighed unto them at the start and was to be weighed when turned over to the authorities at Jerusalem. The incentive to honesty and strict accounting of the trust was that they were holy men and were entrusted with that which was holy because it belonged to God. Most exacting care should be exercised in handling the Lord's money.

2. Their safe arrival (vv. 31, 32).
Some four and one-half months were required to make the journey. God brought them safely to their destination, thus proving that He is faithful to those who put their trust in Him.

God's Answer Not Always Yes
A little girl had been invited to a picnic party. Being a devout little girl, she prayed for fine weather and a happy time. But on the morning of the day the skies were gray and rain fell heavily. Instead of roaming in the fields she stood looking out on a dreary landscape. "You prayed for fine weather, didn't you?" said her mother. "and God hasn't answered your prayer, has He?" "Oh, yes. He has, mother," came the apt reply, "and He has said 'No.'"

Norman Cathedrals
There are several old cathedrals in Normandy, including those of Rouen, Lisieux, Bayeux, Coutances, Evreux and Seez, but none of them is particularly famous for its chimneys, though there are in Normandy many old bell-towers. Piquette's well-known opera, "The Chimes of Normandy," made the village of Corneville famous, though the story and legend of the bells appear to be entirely fictitious.

"DROP THIS IN TH' LETTERBOX ON YA' WAY!"

Hint to Auto Drivers

After taking long drives in an automobile, an austere physician was bothered by an uncomfortable feeling in his ears. He attributed this to the constant noise of the motor and found a way to avoid the trouble by singing while driving, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. He points out that the exercise is beneficial to the lungs, helps posture and promotes circulation, thereby relieving congestion that may form in the ears, a condition that induces the discomfort after a long drive.

Localizing Diseases

A "sporadic" disease is one in which the cases occur here and there. "Epidemic" means in one district only; "epidemic" means widely prevalent in one place, and spreading.

Settlement Days

Lady day (March 25), Midsummer (June 24), Michaelmas (September 29) and Christmas are the old quarterly rent payment dates in England and were commonly used as payment dates for various types of regular income.

Gravitation
Newton's law of gravitation is that any two bodies in the universe attract each other with a force which is directly proportional to the product of the masses, and inversely proportional to the square of the distance between them.

There's a Distinction

"To pay what you owe," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "is enough to bring you into esteem as an honest man. It requires a far more delicate sense of obligation to give you rating as an honorable man."—Washington Star.

Fireplaces Once Taxed
"Hearth-money" was a tax levied upon every hearth or fireplace in England. Charles II was responsible for its introduction in 1690. It existed for over a quarter of a century, and yielded $1,000,000 a year. William III abolished it.

DR. MORTON CRESWELL IS MARRIED IN COSHOCTON, O.

The marriage of Miss Alice M. Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seth M. Snyder, 327 South Fourth st., and Dr. Samuel Morton Creswell, Tacoma, Wash., son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Creswell, Cedarville, comes with unusual interest to the many Coshocton friends of the bride.

The marriage took place at Tacoma Monday afternoon, August 19, at 3 o'clock, with Rt. Rev. Robert H. McGinnis, pastor of the Protestant church, officiating.

The bride, who is an unusually attractive and accomplished young woman, was graduated from the Coshocton high school in 1920, and the following year attended Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware. Later she attended the University of Chicago, from which institution she holds the degree of bachelor of philosophy. In 1923-24 Mrs. Creswell studied at the Lycee de Jeunes Filles, Versailles, France, under a Franco-American exchange scholarship awarded by the Institute of International Education.

Mrs. Creswell has taken graduate work at the University of Chicago and at New York university. She has served on the administrative staff of the university of Chicago, and on the staff of the main Cleveland public library. For a year and a half Mrs. Creswell was located at the Newark, N. J. office of Silver, Burdette and Company, text book publishers, as assistant manager of advertising and publicity. A year ago she was transferred to the Chicago office, where she holds the position of head of promotion for the middle west.

At the University of Chicago Mrs. Creswell was an active member of the Detho club, of the Woman's Athletic association, and was vice-president of the French club.

Dr. and Mrs. Creswell's marriage is the culmination of a friendship that began at the University of Chicago. Dr. Creswell visited in the Snyder home about five years ago.

Following his graduation from Cedarville college, Dr. Creswell taught chemistry in the Xenia high school for a year. He holds a degree of bachelor of science from the University of Chicago, and M. D. degree from Rush Medical college, Chicago, and is affiliated with Chi Phi medical fraternity.

Dr. Creswell served his internship at the Presbyterian hospital, Chicago; was resident physician at Municipal Contagious Disease hospital, Chicago; and chief resident physician at Harman Kiefer hospital, Detroit, Mich., for 18 months, where he was associated with Dr. J. E. Gordon.

He has been practicing for the past year at Tacoma, where he is associated with Dr. H. G. Willard. Dr. Creswell is a specialist in internal and communicable diseases, is microscopic pathologist at the Pierce co. hospital, consulting pathologist for the Northern Pacific hospital, and for St. Peter's hospital, Olympia, Wash. He is consulting physician for the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, and holds a commission as lieutenant in the medical corps of the U. S. N. R. 13th naval district.

Dr. and Mrs. Creswell arrived in Coshocton Saturday for a few days' visit with Mrs. Creswell's parents.

After October 1 they will be at home at the Windthrop hotel, Tacoma, Wash. —Coshocton Daily Tribune.

Complexion, Hair, Eyes, Color Guide

Not What She Likes to Look At, But What She Looks Best In, Woman's Choice

Her own coloring, rather than her preference in colors, should dictate a woman's choice of tints and shades in her apparel, say the home economics extension specialists of the Ohio State University. "Colors which make the eyes, hair and complexion most attractive, should be chosen when buying new clothes or dyeing old ones," say these specialists. And subdued or grayed colors are usually most becoming, therefore do not tire the eye. Sometimes an old garment may be entirely modernized simply by dyeing it a new color. Sometimes it must be taken to pieces and remodeled.

In dyeing garments, the specialists point out it is necessary to remember that the same amount of dye applied to the same weights of different fabrics, may produce different effects. The material is weighed before dyeing, to determine the amount of coloring matter required. The same quantity, by weight, of dye will make cotton and linen seem much duller than silk, will make wool seem less dull than cotton but less bright than silk, will make silk seem brighter than flax or crepe silk.

"The effect of texture on color must be remembered when dyeing a garment made of two or more materials," says the specialists.

Arena Is Provided For Rural Sports

"Rural Community Playhouse" Set Aside At State Fair This Year

Diversions and entertainments which have, by tradition, come to be classed as rural, will have an arena of their own at the Ohio State Fair, this year for the first time. One building on the fair grounds has been designated the "rural community playhouse." In it will take place contests for old-time fiddlers, for dancers of the square dance, for callers of hogs, cows, sheep, hushands, chickens and dogs.

Contests for fiddlers and dancers will take place daily during the fair. The callers of the various types of livestock are scheduled as follows: Monday, husbands; Tuesday, sheep; Wednesday, cows; Thursday, hogs; Friday, chickens. There are cash prizes for winners in all classes. L. J. Miller, in charge of the contests, will furnish all details and may be reached through the department of rural economics of the Ohio State University.

To qualify in the old fiddlers' contest, the candidate must be more than 40 years old. Contestants in the square dancing will receive more consideration if they are 40 or over. In the calling contests the judges will consider volume, persuasiveness, and the musical and carrying qualities of the voices heard. Any resident of the state is eligible to enter the contests.

Many Factors Join To Fix Farm Profit

No One Trick Is Enough To Ensure Good Labor In Come To Operator

Success or failure in farming is no matter of one or two tricks or abilities on the farmer's part. Analysis of accounts kept on 67 Knox County farms shows many ways to obtain a big income from a farm, and equally as many in which to lose money.

Incomes in this group of farms varied, from a gain of $4807 to a loss of $320 for the year. Different types of farming gave different returns. The best 10 dairy farms averaged $2549, the best 10 sheep farms $2183. The 10 farms with the lowest incomes averaged only $71 for the year.

Volume of business was most important. Farms which took in more than $3,000 cash averaged about $1,900 income. Those taking in less than $3,000 fell to about $700. Size of livestock business and efficiency of the stock were about equally important. Farms with more than 6 cows showed an average income of $1788. Those with fewer cows showed an average of only $832.

Twenty farms which obtained a return of more than $175 for each dollar's worth of feed consumed by the livestock, had an average labor income of $1945.

Ten farms obtaining less than $1 for each dollar's worth of feed, had an average income of only $166.

THE MONTGOMERY COUNTY FAIR

Horses are already beginning to arrive, exhibit halls are cleared and ready to receive their displays and the grounds are in spic and span condition for the great Montgomery County Fair, to be held at Dayton, September 2nd to 5th inclusive, during the daylight hours.

The speed program is one of the best in years and offers $6100.00 in prize money for the four days. Five races will be run on Labor Day, which draws thousands of families from throughout the county and adjoining communities, four on the following two days and five on the final day.

A feature this year will be two races, one on Monday and the other on Thursday for non-winners, including all horses that did not win first or second money previously during the year. The Monday race is a 2:22 pace and the other a 2:32 trot, with stakes of $350.00 in each instance.

Another new feature of the races is four claiming races wherein a claiming price is set in each contest at which the owner of the animal entered agrees to sell his horse if anyone cares to buy it at that price after the race is run, irrespective of how fine a showing the horse makes. Two of these races will be run on Tuesday and two on Wednesday.

There will be a horse show each day of the fair in connection with the regular speed events, in which saddle horses and ponies will vie for ribbons. This is always a special feature of the Montgomery County Fair and one which draws a heavy crowd.

The various departments, from early indications, will be filled with exhibits of the highest grade and make the fair an outstanding one in every respect. Plenty of amusements have been provided, entertainment features of high merit interspersing the race program and a band being on hand every day to furnish tunes from morning until evening.

ESTATE APPRAISED

EXECUTOR DISCHARGED
Grant Miller, executor of the will of Sarah J. Ridenour, has been allowed his final discharge.

Concentration Has An Economic Limit

Superphosphates May Become Too "Super" For Good Of Plants Fed

Farmers in Ohio now use a far more concentrated type of commercial plant food than they did 20 years ago, and the tendency is toward still higher concentration. Twenty years ago commercial fertilizer containing 14 per cent of superphosphates, were the rule. Then came 16 per cent, and later 20 per cent superphosphates. Experiments have shown that the more concentrated forms are as good as the others when applied in equivalent amounts. Smaller bulk and lower shipping charges have been advantages in the trend toward higher concentration.

Some agronomists, however, believe there is a limit to the economic benefit of the higher concentration. In the production of the richer superphosphates, gypsum is a by-product of the 14 per cent and 16 per cent types, is eliminated. While no final determination has been made, there is evidence that leaving out the gypsum affects the utilization of the plant food.

Furthermore, it is pointed out by E. E. Barnes of the soils department of the Ohio State University, machinery for distributing fertilizer is designed to handle the less concentrated forms. Until machines which will distribute, evenly, the more concentrated forms of fertilizer have replaced present equipment, there may be difficulty.

Present relatively high prices for bee cattle are one of the factors restricting increases in the number of dairy cows in the country.

Increased demand and good prices for well-bred horses and mules, especially during the next few years, are forecast by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Only one acre in seven of Ohio land which needs drainage, is now adequately tile drained, according to the Engineering Experiment Station of the Ohio State University.

Fall Lamb Market May Be Up, Down

Opposing Forces Are Affecting Number Likely to be Offered And Prices to be Asked

Two forces, acting in opposite directions, are affecting the prospects for this fall's market in feeder lambs. The result is considerable uncertainty about that market, according to C. R. Arnold of the rural economics department of the Ohio State University.

"In the first place, this year's supply of late lambs from the western states is smaller than last year's," says Arnold. "This would tend to reduce the number of lambs on the market."

"However, during the past few years sheep prices have been good and wool has been fairly high. As a result, a considerable number of lambs has been held back from market each year, to increase the breeding flock. This year, in the western states, wool prices have declined rather noticeably and as a result there may be less interest in increasing the flocks beyond the large numbers which they have already reached. If this is true, we would naturally expect a larger percentage of the lambs to be marketed this year, than were marketed last year.

"An active demand for feeder lambs is expected this fall because there may be a smaller supply available for market at the time of year when many feeders buy them. Because of the shortage in the western states the demand may carry the price of feeder lambs so high that it will reduce the profits for the feed lots."
